APPENDIX.

APPENDIX I.

BOOKS BOUGHT BY PRIOR MORE.

The following is a list of Books bought by Prior More, of which a few still seem to remain in the Library. While this cannot be proved beyond dispute, it may fairly be assumed that if the Library possesses books definitely mentioned by the Prior, and the date of the book does not preclude the possibility of its being bought by him, these really do represent his purchases. Many of the items appear again in MS. A. xii., a book containing all manner of notes (see below), including a few summaries by Prior More of purchases made by him. In one or two instances these lists have helped to clear up obscure points in the Journal itself.

I have, where possible, added the Hain numbers to the books mentioned, in order to help in identifying them, but Mr. Hamilton has pointed out to me that the books which the Prior bought may sometimes have been in manuscript, for there were as yet no printed editions of some of the books which he mentions. His purchases extend over the years 1518—1533. Many of them also may have been printed after 1500, and therefore would not occur in Hain.

- 1518-19. Fol. 40. S. Augustine with Sermons. 50s. (Hain, 1946—2114). This is mentioned again in a summary which he makes on fol. 45 for the year 1518-19, as the hoole warke of S. Austens. The present Library copy of this work was printed at Basle in 1529 (F. 1—10).
- " " 40. 3 bokes of Scala Celi. 3s.
- " " 43. ij ye furst bokes of Abbott. 17s. And again on fol. 45, the hoole warke of Abbott. 22s. 8d. This may be Incunabula 7, Nicolaus Panormitanus, super 4^o et 5^o decretalium—Nuremberg, Koberger, 8 Apr. 1486 (Hain, *12314(6), P. 2060); or possibly Incunabula 6, Repertorium Panormitani of 30 Jan. 1486, same place and printer. A "furst bucke of lawe of Abbott, 5s. 4d.," is also mentioned on fol. 46.
- " " 51. Archedeacon apon ye Decres. 6s. 8d. i.e., Guido de Baysio, Archidiaconus Bononiensis. There is a copy of this among the MSS., F. 97, but it contains a note

- made in 1466. F. 141 is Guido's "Glossa in librum sextum decretalium," but the inside of its cover has a copy of a letter mentioning Prior Wolstan de Braunsford's election in 1338-9.
- 1518-19. Fol. 51. Dominicus super sexto. 7s. 6d. (Hain, 7528—7541.) Dominicus de Geminiano.
1523. " 66. Seynt Jeroms warkes. v. volem. 40s. Wynkyn de Worde printed a Vitas patrum in 5 parts in 1495 (cf. B.M., C. 11, b. 3). In the Catalogue of printed books is an entry: Hieronymus, (S.) Stridonensis. Opera, per Erasmus, Basil, 1526, fol.; D.E. 6—10; but unfortunately the Prior's entry is clearly dated 1523.
- " " 66. Seynt Gregoris warkes. 1 volume. 8s. (Hain, *7926—7994). Under Gregorius Turonensis in the Catalogue is his Historia Gallorum libri x. In Vitas SS. Patrum lib. unus. Paris, 1512(?)—22, fol.; U.D. 14. Gregorius Nazianzenus, Orationes lat. E.H. 2, is too late, Paris 1532.
- " " 66. Seynt Ambros warkes. 3 volumes. 13s. 4d. (Hain, *896-7.) No. 23 of the Catalogue of Incunabula records Johann of Amerbach's edition of 1492.
- " " 66. A bucke called herry boyke. 1 volume. 12s. This is further explained in the inventory of A. xii. as "A bucke of lawe called herry bowyke." i.e. Bouhic, Lyons, 1498; Hain, *3682.
- " " 66. Summa Summarum. 1 volume. 6s. 8d. F. 131 is Speculum iuris canonici uocatum Summa Summarum, a 14th century MS., but it contains a note by Henry Fowke, so it must have been in the Library long before Prior More's time.
- " " 66. A bucke called hostiens. 1 volume. 11s. Hostiens or Hostiensis = Henricus de Segusio.
- " " 66. A bucke called the Englesshe cronnycles. 2s. 8d. Several editions of this had been printed. M.F. 10 is the edition printed by Wynkyn de Worde in 1528, but the copy bought by the Prior in this year may have been his edition of 1502 or 1515, Notary's of 1504 or 1515, or Pynson's of 1510.
- 1524-5. " 79. A bucke of Seynt barnards works. 6s. De Worde printed his "Meditations" in English in 1496, but among the MSS. in the Library F. 152 contains several of S. Bernard's works, and so does Q. 51. From a note on the latter volume it would appear that it must originally have been intended to be a - collection of S. Bernard's works, though in its present state other works have been bound up with it.

- 1524-5. Fol. 79. A bukke called ortus herbarum, volatillum, & lapidarum. 5s. This is probably a copy of the Hortus sanitatis, as A. xii. shews. (Hain, 8941—8944; Proctor, 497, 1447—9.) Q. 93 seems to contain large portions of a MS. Compendium naturalis historie.
- „ „ 79. A masse bukke of prynt. 3s. 4d. There is a Breviarium secundum usum Herfordensem, Rouen, 1505, 12mo, in the Library (I.K. 14), one of Salisbury use, pars estivalis, 4to, Paris, 1519, per Nic. Hygman (I.E. 5); and another, pars hyemalis, 4to, Antwerp, 1525-6, per Chr. Ruremund (I.E. 6). But a "masse book" must surely be a missal, and this would certainly be for the Prior's private use.
- „ „ 79. Ortus vocabulorum. 12d. Pynson brought out an edition of this in 1509; W. de Worde in 1514; and P. Olivier, for J. Cousin at Rouen, in 1520.
- „ „ 79. For lyttull bukke of Actus Apostolorum, etc. 16d. There are several copies of Acts bound up with other books of the Bible or commentaries among the MSS., but there is no means of identifying any one of them with this entry.
- 1526-7. „ 94. A lyttull bukke of seynt benetts rewle. 6d. There is also an entry on fol. 37: "3 bokes of seynt Benetts rewle in Englysshe. 2s. 8d." These are probably copies of the translation by Bishop Fox of Winchester, printed in 1516 by Pynson.
- „ „ 94. 2 bokes of ye 7 sacraments. 18d. (Hain, 14091.) The Assertio septem sacramentorum of Henry VIII. Pynson, 1521.
- „ „ 94. A lyttull boke de predicacionibus. 10d. (Hain, 1351—62, by Thomas Aquinas.)
- „ „ 94. Petrus de Anckorano super sexto. (Hain, 942 ?)
- „ „ 94. Philippus franckus super sexto = Philippus de Franchis. (Hain, *7314.)
- „ „ 94. Archidiaconus super sexto. (Hain, *2719), see fol 51.
- „ „ 94. Zaberellus cardinalis super clementine. (Hain, 16250—57.)
- „ „ 94. Innocentius super decretalium. (Hain, 9191—94.) MS. F. 170 is an Apparatus Innocentii pape IIII. in Decretales. These last five books together cost 26s. 8d.
- „ „ 94. Filinus. 2 volumes. 15s. Ficinus wrote a book De Christiana religione; or could it be meant for Plinius? There still exists among the printed books a copy of the younger Pliny's letters (R.H. 3), printed at Venice in 1519. Or again, could this name stand for Felyne, (i.e. M. Bucer), Psalter of David in English. See Sayle, Early English printed books, U.L.C., No. 563? Or for Friar Felix (Felinus), op. cit. No. 6091?

- 1526-7. Fol. 94. Frydericus. 14d. Among the MSS. formerly at Worcester, but now in the British Museum (Bib. Reg. 10, B. x.), is Friderici II. Imperatoris, Queremonia de sua depositione, etc., per Petrum de Vineis; or could it be Fridericus II., Privilegia clericorum (Hain, 7379)?
- " " 94. One bukke conteynyng 3 counceills, viz., consilia abbatis, consilia calderini, consilia lodwycy. 11s. 3d. Hain, 12343, has Panormitanus and Ludovicus together. Hain, 4252, is Joh. Calderinus. F. 154⁹ is part of a work of Calderinus. The two books may have been bound up together before the Prior bought them.
1528. " 109. Novella Jo. Andree super decretalibus in duobus voluminibus. 24s. (Hain, 1065—80.) MSS. F. 141⁸, but this was probably bought earlier, and F. 168¹.
- " " 109. Prepositus super causis & super distinctionibus. 16s. Q. 70 is the Commentaria in decretum Gratiani. The catalogue says: "In this book the first two parts of the Decretum, the distinctiones and causæ, alone are considered. The book is an early 13th century MS."
- " " 109. Lectura hostiensis in duobus voluminibus. 14s. 4d.
- " " 109. Rationale divinorum. 2s. F. 129 is a folio MS. of Durandus' Rationale of the 14th century, but compared with the other prices 2s. seems rather low for a folio, but perhaps not for a MS. Durandus was the first book printed except the Bible, and would have been already cheap in print.
- " " 109. Legenda sanctorum in Anglia. 16d. This is Capgrave's book, printed by W. de Worde in 1516, and still in the Library. X.B. 9.
- " " 111. A prynt masse boke bowght at london with 3d. ye carage. 4s. 7d. There does not seem to be any book still existing in the Library which can be identified with this.
- " " 111. Speculum spiritualium. 2s. Among the MSS. F. 114¹³ is called Speculum spiritualis amicitie [= Augustinus de amicitia], but this is more probably the work of Richard Rolle of Hampole. Bodl. 861, formerly belonging to Worcester, is a 15th century MS. of his works, but judging from the price this is more likely to have been the 4to edition of Rolle's "Speculum," printed by W. Bretton for W. Hopyl in 1510.

1530. Fol. 121. Ludolphus de vita cristi. 4s. (Hain, 10288—97.)
Probably F. 140, a 15th century MS.
- 1530-1. „ 126. Opera hugonis de Sancto Victore. 3 volumes. 15s.
(Hain, 9022—28). The printed copy in the Library is dated 1588 (G.K. 7). Among the MSS. Q. 48 and Q. 75 might be two of the three volumes.
- „ „ 126. Opera Bede. 1 volume. 6s. 8d. (Hain, 2732—5.)
F. 148 (14th century MS.) was probably originally a complete Bede. Q. 66 contains Bede in Cantica Canticorum.
- „ „ 126. Hugo cardinalis. 1 volume. 5s. Hugo de S. Caro, Postilla super evangelia, Basel, 1482 (Hain,* 8975), is still in the Library: Incunabula 22.
- „ „ 126. Opera Willelmi parisiensis. 1 vol. 6s. The catalogue of printed books gives "Guillermus Parisiensis, Errores Parisiis condemnati" (title wanting). (Hain, 8276—78 = Postilla super epistolas, &c.)
- „ „ 126. Poliantea. 3s. 4d. There is, among the printed books, Josephus Langius, Novissima Polyanthea in libros xx dispersita: Frankfort, 1617. Can this book, mentioned by the Prior, be some earlier work on which Langius modelled his own? Dominicus Nannus wrote a Polyanthea, which was printed in Venice in 1507. See D'Essling II., i., 157 (No. 1586).
- „ „ 126. Ricardus de sancto victore de trinitate. 16d. MS.
F. 149 contains a copy of this work, among the works of S. Augustine.
- „ „ 126. Opera Hillarii. 1 vol. 6s. (Hain, 8665.) Badius Ascensius printed it in 1500.
- „ „ 126. Questiones divi thome. 10d. (Hain, 1400—1422.)
F. 107 and F. 108 are two 14th century MSS. of the Questiones.
- „ „ 126. Opera laurentii Justiniani. 1 vol. 6s. 8d. (Hain, 9477-8).
- „ „ 126. Opera Ruparti. 3 volumes. 15s. (Hain, 14046?)
- „ „ 126. Pepyne in genesin. 2 littul vols. 3s. 4d. F. 76 is a Glossa ordinaria in Genesin, 13th century MS., but a folio; Q. 59 is also a Lectura super Genesim, but by Jacobus de Lausanne.

- 1530-1. Fol. 126. Opera Basilii. 3s. 4d. T.K. 56 is S. Basil's "Expositio in prophetam Esaiam," Erasmus' edition, printed at Köln in 1519. 4to.
- " " 126. Beda de Natura rerum et de tropis. 16d. (Hain, 2735.) Q. 5 contains Beda de arte metrica, and his De acematibus et tropis, an 11th century MS., mentioned in Leland's list.
- " " 126. Angelovi in Regum. 2s.
- " " 126. Philippus presbiter in Job. 2s. 8d. F. 55 is a Moralia super Job, said to be a possible modification of the Moralia of Gregory the Great, a 14th century MS. Fragment IX. is also an Exposition of Job, a 10th century MS.
- " " 126. Opera brewnome. 1 volum. 6s. 8d. (Hain, 4011—16.) B.I. 3 is S. Bruno's Vita et expositio in omnes divi Pauli epistolas. Paris, 1509.
- " " 126. Opera Cipriani. 1 volum. 5s. E.H. 2 is a volume of S. Cyprian's works, edited by Erasmus; not dated, but probably 17th century (?). (Hain, 5894—5900.)
- " " 126. Opera Seneca. 1 vol. 5s. (Hain, 14590—14675.) F. 80⁷ and F. 154²¹ are portions of Seneca's works.
- " " 126. Opuscula divi thome. 1 vol. 5s. (Hain, 1539—42.)
- " " 126. Opera fulgentii. 1. 16d. (Hain,* 7392 = Allegoricæ.) F. 154 contains some of Fulgentius' work.
- " " 126. Philo judeio. 2s.

APPENDIX II.

A COMPANION VOLUME TO THE JOURNAL.

A book which is frequently referred to in these notes is a MS. preserved among the documents belonging to the Dean and Chapter of Worcester, and has the press mark A. xii. It contains 173 numbered leaves, and has certainly contained more, but its losses are not as great as those of the Journal itself, to which it may be fairly described as a Companion Volume, since its matter seems to have been compiled for the use of Prior More; and the two books are written in similar handwritings on similar paper. We may, perhaps assume them to have been twin volumes, each of 180 or 200 leaves. From this book some extracts are here given, illustrating some passages in the Journal. A. xii. contains copies of Charters and Privileges of the Monastery, lists of Bishops and Priors, and particulars of the Revenues of the Priory ("receptiones ex certitudine"), so that in it Prior More had a record of what he had a right to receive, while in the Journal he put down what he actually received. But A. xii. also contains several notes of contemporary interest, which make it in some measure a supplement to the Journal.

A. xii. opens (ff. 1—12) with the following

f. 2, a.

Pryncce Edward, kyng henry the Eyght son, was borne of quene Jane at hampton corte, seynt Edwards Even fryday in October Anno Dom. millesimo quingentesimo trisesimo vij^o Et in Anno Regis henrici Octavi xxix^o.

The above is just such an entry as might be found in the Journal ; so is the following, about the Prior's favourite moat :—

f. 163, a.

The lencketh of the mott att Crowle.

The lencketh of the mott att Crowle on the churche syde (the yest syde) by the banke on the utter syde to the cornellys of the mott att the yend conteyneth cxj yeards.

The lencketh of the other syde towards Worcester (the west syde) conteyneth iiij^{xxij} yeards.

The lencketh on the vicarage syde (the northe syde) conteyneth iiij^{xxj} yeards.

The lencketh towards Browghton (the sowth syde) conteyneth iiij^{xxiiij} yeards.

The depnes of the mott in Crowle courte conteyneth x yeards.

f. 106, a. Appointment of Prior More's successor.

Henricus Holbebache [sic] monachus de Crowlande et doctor theologie prefixus fuit in priorem Wygornie in Capitulo fratrum predicatorum Londini die marcij Anno Dom. millesimo quingentesimo xxxvj.

[In another hand :—]

Henricus Holbeche primus decanus post dissolucionem prioratus.

The same hand seems to have added in the space between 'die' and 'marcij' 'primo secundi.' Possibly the first of the second [part of] March is the 25th. This would make the date right, 1536 being reckoned to begin on 25 March.

. Note that the Allocationes domini prioris given above, p. 424, are not in the corresponding place in the MS. They are found on ff. 29, 30 of A. xii.

INTRODUCTION.

WILLIAM MORE, whose real name as we see from the MS. was Peres, Peers or Pears, as we should probably write it now, was Prior of Worcester from 1518 till the beginning of 1536. As he tells us on fol. 1, he took the tonsure in 1488 at the age of 16 years; we find from rolls in the Cathedral Library that he was kitchener from 1501—1504, and he rose to be sub-prior under John Wednesbury. Prior Wednesbury having died at Rome August 23, 1518, More was made Prior in the following October, being elected by the whole convent "and the gift of the Bishop of Winchester,¹ Dr. Fox," as we learn from a letter of Lady Margery Sandys to Cromwell in 1535. (Letters and Papers of Henry VIII., ix., 656.) This will probably account for his frequent mention of "my lorde of Winchester," and the presents made to him, and may also possibly help to explain the presence of Winchester papers at Worcester.

More resigned office at the end of 1535 or early in 1536, and how far the charges brought against him by one of his monks, John Musard, are worthy of credit (Letters and Papers of Henry VIII., ix., 51, 52, 497; x., 216), it is difficult to determine; certainly many of the entries in his Journal bear out Musard's accusations that he was lavish to his relations and servants, that he increased his servants' wages, and that he was constantly involved in law-suits, besides the matter of the new mitre and staff, and the "rewards" (bribes?) given to the King's officers.

It may be convenient to give here as much of Musard's letters as are concerned with these accusations:—

Letters and Papers of Henry VIII., vol. ix., 51. August 8, 1535.

J. M. to Cromwell.

"With heavy heart, being in prison, I beg your compassion. If I were so unreasonable a creature as Dr. Lyeth (Leigh) and Mr. Price (John ap Rice) say I am, it were pity of my life; but I desire in visceribus Jesu Christi that you will not accept their false accusations at this time of your visitation. It was chiefly procured by my unkind master for my faithful mind and duty to the King in publishing their misdoings against him."

No. 52. John Musard to Henry VIII. (i.) Gives some account of his family, and recalls service done by his father to Henry VII. Then: "As a religious man I felt bound to send the words of treason, and the cloaking of them by my master, to master Secretary at Winchcomb: for which certain of my brethren conspired against me and they have procured master Secretary as under visitor to put me in prison at Worcester . . ."

(ii.) A paper by John Musard touching an accusation of treason which he preferred to Bachelor Lawarne, sub-prior, Dr. Neckam and Father Hodyngton against Richard Clyve, for railing against the King and Anne Boleyn and upholding Catherine and the authority of the Pope . . . Also wishes the convent to be examined "of the statutes' ward¹ upon which he (query the Prior) have stand objuryd fro the first day of his installation till the present time; whereupon he deposed two discreet men, Mr. Dr. Neckam fro the sub-prior's office without any cause alleged lawful, also he put Wm. Fordam fro the cellarer's office for standing unto the right of the house . . ."

(iii.) Musard's memorial to the Lord President of the King's Council (in the Marches) complaining that he and others had been oppressed for 16 years, and several times imprisoned in the Bishop's prison or in London, simply for telling the truth. Complains of the Prior for having bribed Wolsey's visitor, Dr. Alen, with 20 angels and a white palfrey; for not standing to an award made before the Commissioners, viz., the Lord President that was, the abbots of Evesham and Winchcomb, Dr. Gwent, Dr. Myddylton, Mr. Bonar and others. He was imprisoned, March 2, by a party in the convent, for appealing to my lord of Canterbury's visitation.

No. 497, September, John Musard to Cromwell, contains more complaints.

Vol. x., 216. January 31, 1536. John Musard to Cromwell.

" . . . As for alms the convent gives out of their portion six times as much as ever did our untrue master. He kept great hospitality upon our chancellor and Bishop's officers, on sergeants and ayturnies of Westminster Hall, on doctors and proctors of the Arches, with great fees and rewards, for he has been most of his time at law with gentlemen, the convents and tenants, on account of the affection he has to his kindred and servants. He gives to them the alms which our monastery is bound to give in our prince's name to fourteen poor people, viz., sixteen bushels of corn each year, and they hold the greatest profits and farms belonging to the monastery. There are three goodly mitres and staves in the Cathedral, but he has sold plate to the value of 80*l.* to buy a new mitre and staff. (See fol. 61.) When the time came to pay our duty to our prince, he laid the charge on the officers and convent out of their portion of 3*l.* a year, so that he paid little himself, saying that the prior's portion was little enough to keep his honour. He has as servants four gentlemen, ten yeomen and ten grooms, of whose wages the convent officers pay much. Besides these, ten yeomen belonging to the convent go in his livery, for whom he is not charged. Even this number would not satisfy him, but he has gentlemen waiters as well, and has increased their wages, diminishing the portion of the convent" With regard to this last point, it will be noticed that the wages paid quarterly do increase slightly later in the book, but practically only from 5*l.* 1*s.* 3*d.* to 6*l.* 7*s.*

A letter from Roger Neckham to Cromwell, dated February 17, 1536, after the prior's disgrace, does not shew him in a very favourable light (vol. x., 311). "Our father prior came from Gloucester to Worcester 11 Feb. . . . His servant Richard Chylde delivered a letter to me from you to send to him by his servant . . . horse and money convenient for his honest conveyance to you. These I promised him. I must needs tell you how I was bated by him and his servant, the worse because I was your minister. My master says if 10 or 12 were out of the monastery he could live quietly. If those he despiseth had a discreet father they would live quietly and better than those whom he favours . . . From the 13th to the 17th he visited his manors and chambers, taking out of his privy chamber four marks and four great books of accounts (of which this was probably one) and sealed the door, keeping the key . . . My prosperity rests upon you, for I know the severity of our master. I have delivered him horses and 20*l.* in money."

It should be noticed that Latimer in a letter to Cromwell, dated January 8, 1536, says: "If that great crime was proved against him, as you say it was"—which seems conclusive evidence of some serious charge having been brought against him, though Bishop Latimer expresses no opinion about it. The charge was one of treason; or at least of permitting Richard Clyve, one of his monks, to use treasonable language about the King's divorce and the character of Anne Boleyn. More was not charged, apparently, with using such language himself, but it seems to have been thought that he "cloaked" it out of sympathy. That the Prior did not lack friends is shewn by a letter from Rowland Lea, Bishop of Coventry and Lichfield, to Cromwell, October 1, 1535, where he says: "The party is a great possessor, and at assizes the gentry of the county have been familiarly entertained by him," and considers this a reason for proceeding cautiously with his trial; and Lady

Margery Sandys, in the letter previously mentioned, dated October 21 of the same year, says: "I write to you of the prior of Worcester, Dan Wm. More, who remains in Gloucester at the King's pleasure and yours. I beg the matter may be examined, for he is a true monk to God and the King. . . ."

At this point it is only fair to the Prior to consider some of the documents on the other side. In the same volume ix. of State Papers, quoted above, No. 90 is a letter dated August 14, 1535, from the Lord Chancellor (Audeley) to Cromwell. He says that he is sending a commission of oyer and determiner concerning the Prior of Worcester and his monk (Dan Richard Clyve). He thinks the words spoken by the monk in March last touching appeals will hardly bear treason, but misprision, "for there is no express mention of the King or Queen." The words spoken of the King and Queen at Christmas or before February would have been treason if they had been spoken after February 1. "It were best," he concludes, "to have them indicted truly upon the fact, and then let them remain in ward until further opinions be known."

No. 151. On August 22 John Gortwyk writes to Cromwell that he has not yet received the commission of oyer and determiner for the Prior of Worcester, but wrote to the Lord Chancellor to send it with all speed. And on August 24 he has heard from the Chancellor that it had been sent "by one Cowley, of Ireland."

In fact, there seems to have been no great eagerness in high quarters to prosecute Prior More; and it does not seem certain that he was ever brought to trial, though Lady Margaret Sandys' letter, quoted above, shews that he was under some restraint in October 1535 at Gloucester, presumably in the Abbey. How he came back from Gloucester on February 11, 1536, is described above in Neckham's letter to Cromwell, and from Worcester he went to appear before Cromwell himself. It must have been on this occasion that he finally cleared himself of the charge of treason. Probably no such charge would ever have been brought against him if he had not been more or less in the position of guardian of the Princess Mary (afterwards Queen), a dangerous post in the year 1535. One may suspect that the Lord Chancellor acted as a good friend to More in delaying his "commission of oyer and determiner," and finally entrusting it to a casual Irish messenger, who does not seem ever to have delivered it; for as the year 1535 wore on, it became less and less treasonable in the King's eyes to think, and even to speak ill of Queen Anne.

As for the other charges against the Prior, such as those of the wretched informer Musard, who had been actually arrested and imprisoned for theft, as we find in the Journal (pp. 330, 331),¹ they seem to have been dismissed with contempt.

However, it was natural after what had happened that Prior More did not care to resume the government of the Priory, but he was allowed to retire on honourable terms. His successor, Henry Holbeche, was elected or appointed in London in March, 1536. It is interesting to note that the first page of the Journal shews the Prior busy with repairs to the house where he was to end his days.

Noake ("Monastery and Cathedral of Worcester," pp. 203—5) states that the terms on which he retired were that he obtained apartments in the monastery for himself and his servants, with fuel, household necessities, silver, plate, etc., also the use of the manor house at Crowle, and a sum of money. He is said to have died in 1558.

One of the most interesting series of entries in the Journal is that of the books bought by the Prior; of these there are some traces in the Cathedral Library, but it is not clear that he bought them all for general use. He definitely states once or twice that they are for the library, but in a letter to Cromwell after his resignation (Letters and Papers, Henry VIII., vol. x., 1272) he specially asks that he may have the "bedding, hangings and books now in his chamber in the monastery of Worcester." This looks as though they were chiefly bought for his own use, and if the request was granted they may still be in existence somewhere in the county, or in some of our great libraries.

The question of seynys (or allowances for blood-letting), so frequently mentioned throughout the Journal, is also of interest. In some of the Society's Transactions already published ("Comptus Rolls of the Priory of Worcester of 14th and 15th centuries," transcribed and edited by S. G. Hamilton, 1910; and "Accounts of the Priory of Worcester, 1521-2," edited by the Rev. Canon J. M. Wilson, 1907), it is stated that the cellarer and the pitancer were responsible for these payments, but it would appear that the Prior also paid them, unless he was at the same time discharging one of the other offices of the monastery, as happened sometimes if any one had got into difficulties. But he continued to pay them throughout his whole term of office as prior, except the first year. Seynys do not seem to have been paid during Lent, or in the Advent season, or in the weeks of Christmas or Easter; as a rule players gave their performances at these times, and received from the Prior 1s. each week.

From various indications given throughout the Rolls, I have calculated that the monks received 1*d.* per week and the Prior 2*d.* for seyny money, but one cannot be absolutely certain. In the cellarer's account for 1376-7 ("Compotus Rolls") he states that for 34 monks for 43 weeks, with a double allowance to the Prior, seyny money amounted to 6*l.* 5*s.* 6*d.*, and in the previous year the pitancer gives 2*l.* 9*s.* 6*d.* to 34 monks, again with a double allowance to the Prior, but he does not state for how many weeks this applies. From the Accounts of the Priory of Worcester for 1521-2 the following details are obtainable: the pitancer's account gives the number of monks as 39 plus the Prior, sub-prior, and precentor, in his Stipendia monachorum, and in the almoner's account he makes payments to the sub-prior and 40 other monks, and immediately adds "solutum quatuor clericis ecclesie ad idem tempus," who get the same amount as the monks. From the pitancer's account we see that the sub-prior and the precentor get about half as much again as the other monks, and the Prior has double a monk's allowance. If we allow 39 monks 1*d.* each and give the sub-prior and the precentor each 1½*d.* and the Prior 2*d.*, we get 44*d.* per week, and adding four clerks at 1*d.* per week, we get the 4*s.* paid out almost weekly by the Prior. Turning to his receipts in his Journal, we see that the cellarer gave him 2*s.* per quarter, which would make about 2*d.* per week.

The Journal itself is a folio volume consisting of 157 leaves of paper, of which a few are torn, but as a whole it is in a remarkably good state of preservation, and the writing is wonderfully clear and legible. It appears to have been written by three different people, but it is impossible to tell whether any of the writing is in More's own hand; I rather incline to think that it was entirely written by clerks, but one of the hands is rather larger and more irregular than the others, and it is this, if any, that I should put down to the Prior. Here and there all through the book are scribblings in a later hand, Elizabethan, belonging to a Richard Peres, perhaps a nephew of the Prior. These scribblings are usually nothing more than "This is Rychard Peres bok, wytnes John Peres," but there is one tantalizing entry: "I, for pleinge in the scolle of stratforde uppon . . ." on fol. 81, of which it would be interesting to know more. One or two others which are longer I have inserted in the body of the book as they occur.

The watermarks in the paper are mostly the hand and star, though there are no less than seven different varieties of this; one quire has the bull's head and cross, and the final leaf has a bunch of grapes. The collation is as follows: 1, a⁴ (5-7 cut away), b¹⁶ (11 torn, 12-16 cut away), c²⁶ (3 torn, 6 gone, 16-20 cut away), d³² (18-32 cut out), e¹⁴, f¹⁰, g¹², h²⁰, i²² (17 and 21 gone), k¹⁴, l²⁸ (23 torn out, 25-48 cut away). The leaves appear to have been cut out before the Journal was written, for only in one case is there any of the writing missing, i.e., after fol. 156.

I have not attempted many notes for two excellent reasons: first, because I feel that the subscribers to the Society know far more of this subject than myself, and secondly, because it seemed best to let the Prior speak for himself. The longer I studied the matter, the more I have been filled with admiration at the energy and activity of Mr. Noake, who, in his chapter on the Prior in his "Monastery and Cathedral of Worcester," has overlooked very little, and only a simple transcription seems needed to supplement his work.

With regard to the index, my chief aim, as far as the subjects were concerned, was to give a kind of inventory or list of everything mentioned. Naturally the same things occur over and over again, and I have usually confined myself to a reference to the first page on which each entry appears. The same method has been followed in the majority of cases with the indexes of people and places, and for the same reason; only when there seemed to be special occasion for it have I given the references each time that they occurred.

Among my obligations I must set first those to my Principal, without whose kind intervention and interest I should have been unable to undertake what has been a very pleasant piece of work. For help in the elucidation of problems I have especially to thank Mr. G. G. Coulton, who has been constantly ready with encouragement and advice, though himself in the midst of great pressure of work, and Mr. C. Sayle of the University Library, Cambridge. Members of the Worcestershire Historical Society will not need to be told that I have incurred a great debt of gratitude to Canon Wilson and to Mr. S. G. Hamilton; to the latter especially many interesting notes are due, and he has kept me from many foolish blunders.
